As part of her report, Morse included the results of a survey conducted among the nine nurses who were involved in farm monitoring activities. A key concern highlighted by the respondents was the duration of the monitoring period required for affected herds. J. Morse recommended adopting a One Health approach to the HPAI response. This strategy emphasizes the integration of human, animal, and environmental health to enhance communication and collaboration among public health, veterinary, and agricultural sectors. Additional recommendations include; encouraging farms with livestock to restrict visitor access and supporting prevention and preparedness efforts through education and training for agricultural workers.

Motion made by B. DeLong seconded by N. Fickes to accept and place on file the Medical Director’s report. Motion carried.
